One Big Party?

TEACHER'S GUIDE

Note to Teacher: Teaching the two major political parties in the United States can be extremely challenging. The next four pages will walk you through explaining the nuances of the political spectrum to your students. While we make every effort to explain the platforms of the Republican and Democratic parties, you will find reiterated in our materials an emphasis on the fact that political affiliation is not a clear cut issue. Please take time to review all the materials before your start your class, to best prepare for conversations that may arise.

The Political Spectrum

Teacher Activity Guide

Project the "The Political Spectrum" transparency.

Point out all the key terms on the spectrum: left, liberal, center, moderate, right, conservative.

Read each of the following bullet points to your class, omitting its place on the spectrum. Break down each statement with your students as much as necessary. For the first four items, tell your students where they fall on the political spectrum and fill in on the transparency. For the last four items, ask your students to determine where they fall on the political spectrum, providing corrective feedback as needed.

- Teacher Guided
 - The government should take strong action to solve society's problems—far left
 - Pay for government-run programs to help people—center left
 - The government should encourage people and businesses to solve society's problems themselves—center right
 - The government should not get involved in solving society's problems—far right
- Student Guided
 - Offer tax breaks to people and businesses who do good things or stop doing harmful or unfair things—center right
 - The government should regulate people and businesses to promote the common good on all issues—far left
 - The government should leave people and businesses alone to do what they want to do—far right
 - Pass laws to keep people and business from doing harmful or unfair things—center left

Activity Guide

The Bill of Rights

Ratified December 15, 1791

Article I

Congress shall make all laws respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, or to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Article II

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

Article III

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of Counsel for his defense.

Article IV

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

Article V

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or insurrection, or next case upon the subject or for the same subject to be tried by a military or naval court, or by a court-martial, or by a court-martial.

no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

Article VI

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of Counsel for his defense.

Article VII

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any Court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

Article VIII

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

Article IX

The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

Article X

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

A reminder to be ever vigilant in the protection of these rights. A reminder to today's citizens of the Bill of Rights, 1791.
